II. IMPORTANT REMINDERS FOR THE APPLICANT

(1) APPLICATION DEADLINE

The applicant must confirm and submit the demand information for exhibition communication services together with this confirmation letter to the Operator at least 10 working days prior to the exhibition move-in period. If the application is submitted after the move-in period, a 30% urgent processing fee will be imposed.

(2) INTERFACE QUANTITY

For each applied communication service item, the Operator shall only provide 1 Ethernet interface to the designated location of the booth (please attach the booth layout drawing with the usage location marked). If a Local Area Network (LAN) is required, the applicant shall provide their own equipment and deploy the network independently. If the applicant requests the Operator to deploy the LAN, both parties shall separately negotiate the construction plan, service fees and other related matters.

(3) FEES AND PAYMENT

- The access fee for exhibition communication services is a one-time fee for the exhibition period. The product positioning and price standards shall be implemented in accordance with the unit prices specified in the Application Form for Communication Services of China International Exhibition Center (CIEC) (Annex 1).
- A deposit shall be paid for point-to-point private lines, GPS positioning communication line construction, and domestic/international long-distance telephone services. After the exhibition, the applicant shall promptly remove the deployed lines and equipment. The deposit will be refunded only after the Operator's acceptance and approval. If any damage is caused due to construction, the applicant shall compensate at the original price, and the Operator will deduct the compensation amount from the deposit (with excess refunded or deficiency supplemented). Domestic and international long-distance call charges will be deducted from the deposit (with excess refunded or deficiency supplemented).
- To ensure the timely activation of the applied communication services, the total service fee must be paid at least 3 working days prior to the exhibition move-in and construction period after submitting this confirmation letter. After payment, the applicant shall provide the corresponding payment voucher, invoice information and an email address for receiving electronic invoices to yuxiangyu@ciec.com.cn. The Operator will activate the services only after confirming the payment and issue special VAT invoices for the corresponding amount.

Applicant Name: _____

1. The applicant and its customers shall comply with relevant national laws, regulations and administrative rules when using Internet services, and shall adhere to the requirements of the Internet Network Security Emergency Plan and the Trojan and Botnet Monitoring and Disposal Mechanism issued by the Ministry of Industry and Information Technology. If the applicant's user-side system is infected with Trojans or becomes a botnet control terminal (or controlled terminal) that seriously affects network security, the Operator has the right to suspend the applicant's service. The service will be resumed only after the applicant resolves the issue. The Operator shall not be liable for any impacts or losses arising therefrom.
2. If the applicant is an information source responsible unit accessing the Internet, it must comply with relevant national laws, administrative regulations and management rules, strictly implement information security and confidentiality provisions, and abide by the regulations on the confidentiality of international networking of computer information systems. In case of discovering the disclosure of state secrets online, the applicant shall immediately report to the confidentiality authority.
  - (1) Shall not engage in illegal or criminal activities endangering national security or disclosing state secrets through international networking;
  - (2) Shall not store, process or transmit state secret-related information in computer information systems connected to international networks;
  - (3) Computer information systems involving state secrets shall not be connected to international networks;

- (4) Violations of relevant laws, regulations or administrative rules shall be subject to penalties by the competent authorities; criminal liability shall be pursued in accordance with the law if a crime is constituted.
3. The applicant and its customers shall not use the Internet to engage in illegal or criminal activities such as endangering national security, disclosing state secrets, or producing, accessing, copying or disseminating information that violates the Constitution, laws, public security, national unity, ethnic solidarity, or contains obscenity or violence. The following nine types of information are strictly prohibited from being published online:
- (1) Opposing the basic principles established by the Constitution;
  - (2) Endangering national security, disclosing state secrets, subverting state power, or undermining national unity;
  - (3) Damaging national honor and interests;
  - (4) Inciting national hatred, discrimination, or undermining national unity;
  - (5) Violating national religious policies or promoting cults and feudal superstition;
  - (6) Spreading rumors, disrupting social order, or undermining social stability;
  - (7) Disseminating information involving obscenity, pornography, gambling, violence, homicide, terror or abetting crimes;
  - (8) Insulting or defaming others, or infringing upon the legitimate rights and interests of others;
  - (9) Containing other content prohibited by laws or administrative regulations.

If the applicant violates relevant laws, regulations or administrative rules when using the exhibition Internet access services, or if the applicant's use of the services is prohibited by court orders or government instructions, the Operator has the right to restrict or terminate all or part of the services in accordance with the instructions of the competent authorities. The Operator shall not be liable for any compensation in such cases.

4. The applicant shall not use the leased dedicated Internet line to illegally operate Internet products or illegal VOIP services. Otherwise, the Operator has the right to suspend the access service.
5. When using Internet services, the applicant shall abide by international Internet practices, shall not launch malicious attacks on others, or send malicious or provocative documents or commercial advertisements to others.
6. The applicant shall manage its internal network to prevent virus spread from affecting the Internet or other parties.
7. The applicant shall comply with the requirements of Order No. 33 of the Ministry of Information Industry and fulfill the filing obligation in accordance with the law.
8. The applicant and its customers shall not send the following types of emails:
  - (1) Promotional emails (such as advertisements, electronic newsletters, or promotional materials) that the recipient has not requested or agreed to receive;
  - (2) Emails that cannot be rejected;
  - (3) Emails with hidden sender identity, address, subject or other information;
  - (4) Emails containing false information such as information source, sender or routing;
  - (5) Emails containing viruses, malicious codes, obscenity, reactionary content or other harmful information.

Upon receiving complaints from recipients of the above emails, the Operator will notify the applicant. The applicant shall immediately take measures to stop sending such emails. The Operator reserves the right to suspend the applicant's network access service. If the Operator is subject to domestic or foreign lawsuits, claims or other penalties arising therefrom, the applicant shall compensate the Operator for all losses incurred.

9. The applicant shall also assume the following responsibilities:

- (1) Publicize national laws and regulations on Internet use to its customers and require them to strictly comply;
- (2) Establish and improve customer files and strengthen the management and education of its customers;
- (3) Establish effective information security and confidentiality management systems and technical support measures, strengthen the review of collected and produced information content, and be responsible for the provided content;
- (4) Ensure that the information provided complies with national regulations on intellectual property rights;
- (5) Actively cooperate with telecommunications departments in the supervision and inspection of online information content in accordance with national regulations and provide necessary data and conditions.

10. The applicant agrees to comply with all the above provisions. If any provision is violated, the Operator has the right to close the access channel of the relevant information source, terminate cooperation with the applicant, and pursue the applicant's legal liability.

The applicant has carefully read, understood and confirmed all the above content, and shall affix its seal below for confirmation.
